Modern Language Courses

“Our classes at the Language Centre are really fun and dynamic. The teacher helps us a lot using pictures and lots of extra homework for us to practise — especially with writing which is probably the most difficult.”

Jordi, student of Arabic

“Our teacher is very responsible and her classes are easy to follow and informative. She speaks in French, which encourages us to learn even more.”

Hanyi, student of French

“I like studying Japanese at UAL Language Centre because I am with a group of people who share my interests and we learn a range of topics, not just grammar.”

Carlotta, student of Japanese

Students can choose from a range of accommodation while studying at the Language Centre, including homestay, house share, year-round residence and university halls of residence.

Homestay

Staying in a homestay will allow you to practise your English outside the classroom and experience diverse British culture first-hand. All the hosts have been selected, interviewed and are regularly inspected by an independent agency, which is registered with the British Council. The homes are situated in residential areas of London and are convenient for public transport. All homes have internet access which is included in the weekly fee. A laundry service is available once a week within the home.

You may choose:

- Bed and breakfast, half-board (breakfast and dinner every day) or self-catering
- One of three homestay options, depending on your needs:

Option One

Typically 50–60 minutes by public transport from the Language Centre. These homestay hosts are in suburban London and are a great budget option.

Option Two

Typically 40–50 minutes by public transport from the Language Centre. These homestays are slightly closer to central London.

Homestay accommodation options one and two are the most suitable for students who are under 18, as these are usually homes in residential areas of London.

Option Three

Typically 30–45 minutes by public transport from the Language Centre. These homestays are in the city and could be hosted by a professional person or couple.

Homestay is normally booked from the Sunday before your course start date, but can be booked from other days of the week if requested, subject to availability. Prices for one week include seven nights' accommodation.

House share

House share offers a room in a house with other students. A house share is ideal for students who want a more sociable option. The house share properties vary in size, accommodating between five and ten students.

These properties are managed by an agency and are regularly cleaned and maintained to a good standard. They are situated in Zone 2, so they are all within easy reach of central London and the Language Centre.

Each house has:

- A shared lounge containing a TV and DVD player and wi-fi internet access
- A fully-equipped kitchen with washing machine, cooker, microwave and fridge as well as all necessary utensils including pots, pans and a toaster
- Bedrooms that are fully furnished with beds, bed linen, a storage area and a study desk

Private bathrooms are available on request for an additional fee. Please note that the availability for rooms with private bathrooms is very limited.

Studios include a kitchenette and private bathroom.

House share rooms must be booked from Sunday to Sunday and you must be 18 years old or over to stay. House share rooms are dependent on availability.

Due to British Council requirements, students who are under 18 must stay in a homestay booked by the Language Centre.

Students' Union

UAL has a very active Students' Union (Arts SU) and as a Language Centre student you are invited to be a part of it. Arts SU is a students' union for arts students. It has an influence on how the University is run and supports a lot of the social and networking opportunities across UAL.

Students can also join a society, which allows students who share common interests or beliefs to meet up in order to develop and share ideas and skills, and have fun at the same time. Arts SU Societies are run by students and supported by the Students' Union. They meet throughout the academic year and often run events for their members.

Joining one of our societies is a great way for you to meet new people from across UAL.
